

Tia Technology helping Old Mutual iWyze achieve their digital and cloud platform goals

Copenhagen, Denmark, 22 May 2020

South African direct insurer, Old Mutual iWYZE have embarked on a company-wide cloud and digital transformation, as they look to future proof their systems by migrating to Amazon Web Services (AWS). They have partnered with Tia Technology, who have a modern and reliable core insurance platform, a strong working relationship with AWS and other cloud providers, and a history of assisting insurers realise their cloud and digital strategies.

As part of their cloud journey, throughout 2019, Old Mutual iWyze have successfully delivered on 12 strategic initiatives, including an upgrade of their Tia installation from version 6.4 to 7.7.

They chose Tia as their single-core policy administration system due to its perfect functional fit for both their short-term and life insurance business. The Tia upgrade to version 7.7 allowed iWyze to access Tia's Product Center, which has enabled their users to easily configure and quickly launch new products and brands into the market and simplify their IT stack by consolidating three policy administration systems into a single Tia solution.

The Tia upgrade also gave them access to Tia's REST API's, which enable quick and easy integration with ecosystem partners, further widening the operational capabilities of the business.

"The increased speed to market and enhanced connectivity have made iWyze more agile when responding to new business opportunities. Our technical integration with partners and external vendors is completed in a shorter duration than it takes to complete the contracting"
Jan Marais, Head of Innovation and Efficiencies at Old Mutual iWyze

Due to Tia's configurability and connectivity around its core system, Old Mutual iWyze were able to deliver all the mentioned initiatives and upgrades in-house, and in just one year, without engaging any external vendors and with minimal IT involvement.
